6 (Paragraph 3): In page 16, fourth paragraph to follow the heading “Racing 7 (lines 14) please replace with the following:

8 --The race continues until the winning car reaches the finish line. Note once a 9 car has advanced to the last segment of its lane, it has effectively reached
10 the finish line and finished the race. That player needs not roll the dice
11 again to actually cross the line.--

12 (Paragraph 4): In page 16, first paragraph to follow the heading entitled 13 "The Object of the Game (Winning), lines 17 through 22, please replace with the 14 following rewritten paragraph:

15 --When the first car reaches crosses the finish line, the race is completed. Any 16 driver holding valid pit-passes for the lane in which the first car finishes is a 17 winner. Take all of the tires from the winner's cups and divide them into four 18 stacks with an equal number in each. Any tires left over are placed back into the 19 tire winner's cups for the next race. Then the four stacks are distributed to the 20 players, one stack for each winning pit pass. (Note that there will always be four 21 winning pit passes.)--

23 (Paragraph 5): On page 6, please replace the first and second paragraphs 24 under the heading “Brief Summary of the invention” (lines 5-19) with the following 25 rewritten paragraphs:

1 – In accordance with a preferred embodiment of the invention,
2 there is disclosed an auto racing board game based on NASCAR
3 ™ racing rules. In practical terms, it is a board game that 4 incorporates familiar six-sided casino-style dice, forty-four 44
5 uniquely designed pit passes, capital tokens for which poker chips
6 may be substituted. It also is adapted to incorporate popular 1/24
7 or 1/64 scale model racing cars as playing pieces. The game uses 8 a method of moving these playing pieces on track lanes that are of 9 effectively unequal length, the progress along these lanes being 10 based on the statistical probability of various possible dice
11 combinations in such a way as to give players in each lane an 12 equal probability of winning in spite of the various lane lengths. –

13 One object of the invention is unpredictability in that the various 14 racing lanes on the game board have unequal numbers of squares to 15 traverse balanced by a probability-based system for determining whether 16 any given the number of squares each player may can advance on any 17 given each move. This gives each player equal odds for winning, but 18 gives false appearances or ambiguity as to what player may actually be in 19 the lead.
